

Claims

What I claim as my invention is a pocket sized, hinged, fold up device called the teezitup, which firmly clamps on to various size golf club grips.

What I claim as my invention is a pocket size hinged, fold up device called the teezitup which picks up a golf ball off any surface and places it on a variety of different size and shaped golf tees.

What I claim as my invention is a pocket sized, hinged, fold up device called the teezitup, which has two stabilizing platforms to firmly position the golf tee as it is inserted into the ground.

What I claim as my invention is a pocket sized, hinged, fold up device called the teezitup, which allows the golfer the ability to tee the ball up without bending over.